Punctuating Titles

Grammar Mania Monday

Punctuating Titles

The titles of certain works are most often indicated with either "quotation marks" or italics.

The style presented here is consistent with The Chicago Manual of Style and the MLA Handbook for Writers of Research Papers, and is appropriate for most academic and professional writing; however, newspapers tend to favor quotation marks in place of italics for most titles.

Italicized Titles

Big things and things that can stand on their own, like books, are italicized.

Note: When writing by hand, underline the title instead of italicizing it.

"Quotation Marks" Around Titles

Little things that are dependent or that come as part of a group, like chapters, are put into "quotation marks."

Articles Chapters Episodes Essays
Photos Short Poems Short Stories Songs

Example

You can think of a CD or album as major (big) works that can be divided into smaller parts, or songs. The individual song names (small) are punctuated with quotation marks.

For example:

Because the Internet, by Childish Gambino, includes the song "Sweatpants."
